Sustainability in the workplace – what are we doing and what can you do?

Sustainability and the environment are very much in the press and the political arena *

This topic is also front of mind for many business owners and consumers right now, as it should be. So when it comes to office space planning and office furniture, what are people doing and offering?

The Manufacturers

Many of the manufacturers we use as dealers, are doing their bit for the environment and for sustainability. For example, Ocee Design - https://oceedesign.com/sustainability/commitment/ They also have an EU Ecolabel range, meeting high environmental standards throughout their life-cycle: from raw material extraction, to production, distribution and disposal.

Mobili – https://mobili.co.uk/environment/ They are also doing their bit. All MFC panels are procured from suppliers who are certified as using timber from sustainable sources. And they look at training, minimising wastage and energy and promoting use of recyclable and renewable materials.

Our other usual manufacturers and suppliers are also following suit - https://www.camirafabrics.com/en/inspiration/recycled-polyesters

https://pledgechairs.co.uk/featurespage.php?featurecode=SUS001&feature=Sustainability&startslide=SUS01

https://imperialfurniture.co.uk/sustainability/

https://www.verco.co.uk/resources/

What is Sygnus doing?

We are committed our environmental performance and operating in an environmentally friendly way. Our objectives are reviewing energy consumption, waste reduction including packaging and paper and recycling programmes. Find out more about our environmental policy. https://sygnus-uk.com/resources/

Sources

* https://www.facilitatemagazine.com/content/news/2021/10/20/government-announces-heat-and-buildings-strategy?utm_source=Adestra&utm_medium=email&utm_term=

* https://www.facilitatemagazine.com/2021/10/27/budget-2021-hausmanis-calls-net-zero-clarity-and-welcomes-pay-skills-initiatives?utm_source=Adestra&utm_medium=email&utm_term=